

I would appreciate your efforts in stopping the banks from trying to get around the no-call list. I do not want to receive calls at home from banks or any other businesses trying to sell services. If I am interested in learning about other banks, I can take it upon myself to investigate and visit the banks to learn the information. The no-call list is wonderful! We are no longer bothered by telemarketers during our family time. I have noticed though that lately in an effort to get around the no-call list, a business is leaving recorded messages asking us to return their call. Of course I delete the message but it is annoying to have that on my machine everyday I get off of work. Thank you for your time and efforts to stop this.
